

MAIDS, MINXES AND MONSTERS

Shakespeare's Women:
three types of women as seen in his plays

A talk given by David Bryer

David Bryer worked at the Royal Court Theatre and, after reading Drama and English at Bristol University, at the National Theatre under Laurence Olivier.

He is a theatre translator and has taught at the University of Sussex for the last 22 years.

Tel: 01435 874857 – Mobile: 07835 388 694 – Email: reyrbdivad@onetel.com